Hi Zion:

July 17, 2018

I'd love to be out there baking bread with you instead of in here thinking about warm bread fresh from the oven, still warm with butter and jam or honey. It makes my mouth water. But alas, that will have to wait for another day.

Meanwhile, I know what you mean about not being able to get away from TV. Many shows are emotionally satisfying. I have an advantage: I'm an old man and grew up with black & white TVs, no cell phones, no internet, no social media and no computers. For me, there's a short period of adjustment and then I'm fine. I have about 2 more weeks to go and then I'll bring TV back into my life.

Meanwhile, I have a new cellmate who does not have a TV so I turned my TV over to him until August 1st.

I hope you enjoy reading my most recent blogs (submitted along with this response).
