SOUND MIND 13.

(THE ORIGINS)

Today I learned that my mother passed away, all of the deathrow Mental Health staff have gone home, there is no Priest, Pastor, Native American Chief, and no Imam here to consult my low Spirit, and the last person I want to talk to is this Cop that keeps banging on the cell every 20 mins with a metal keeping device.

I cant tell other inmates that my Mother abandoned me when I was 13 years old, after a full childhood of physical abuse and neglect, and I'm remembering every second of it as I write this body of work, and they dont create TV shows about what I need to experience rightnow.

And Just like that, it dawned on me that it was my mother that made me direct the Church Children's Choir, it was my mother that couldnt stop hugging me when I was called up to sing with the Choir at my older Sisters Middle School Graduation, it was the only time she ever hugged me, yes, in public. Willowbrook Jr. High 1979 Graduation.

She introduced me to the love of her life, Mr. Grant, a legendary Music Teacher in Los Angeles California, and Managed Groups like "A Taste of Honey", and taught band leader "Ricky Minor", it was Mr Grant that mentored me about music appreciation, and how my HipHop generation would carry on our Cultural traditions of the fine Arts, when we're lost our minds.

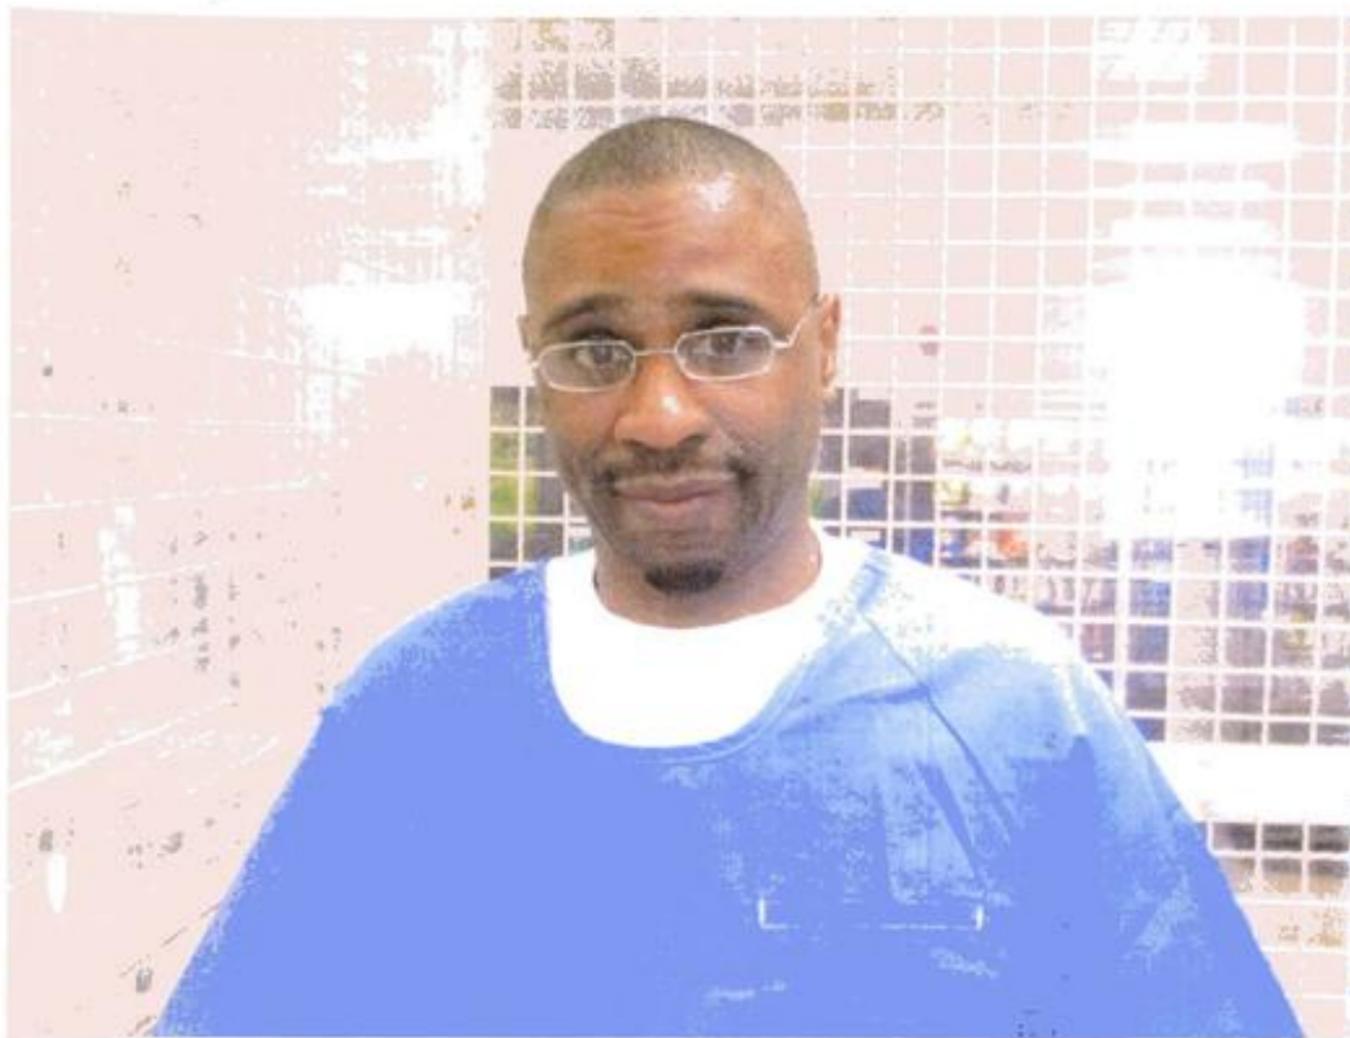

My Mom would say things like "Music Sooths The Savage Beast," and Mr. Grant would say, "awhhh, Congreve, Music has charm to soothe the savage beast." Music Therapy for a New generation requires inclusive ethnographically related content which is engaged with respect and value.

They even used music to help us face fear.

OK, so maby I was just a kid, growing up on the streets of Compton California, not afraid of nothing due to being numb to violence and danger, but, I did have one fear, letting my Momma know I could sing and play drums in church and Direct the Choir. That, could get you beat up.

Mama would say, "Boy, God has not given you the Spirit of fear, but of a Sound Mind, get your head right and get cho lil narrow as out there and be who God made you to be".

Then, Mr Grant would say, "awwhhh, The Apostle Paul, Second Timothy, Chapter one, verse seven, For God has not given us a spirit of fear, but of Power, and of love, and of a Sound Mind".

Rest In Peace Momma, I'm being who God made me to be, and here comes the Sound Mind of your seed.
