Love is the medicine for all the sickness in the world;
Love is a prescription, often given and rarely taken.

The most hurtful things in life are not that we die,
But that we sometimes cease to love,

I believe in love, even when I can't feel it,

("Can you say the same?")

Answer these questions please... What is love without communication? How can you love someone you want to marry, if the two of you have no communication? Correct me if I'm wrong, But isn't love about honest, loyalty, and respect for the person you love? What is so remarkable about love at first sight? What does it mean when you tell someone you love them? In my opinion it isn't money, sex, drugs, men or women that makes the world go around, it's love.

Over the past few years, I have learned that if you love until it hurts then there can be no more hurt only more love...

I feel that when we are in love we seem to be a little different from what we were before, you must realize that in order to experience real love as a mature adult it's necessary to undergo a dramatic shift from attempting to satisfy your self fulfilling needs to developing a desire to meet the needs of another, that's what I had to do.

If your only motivation for a relationship is to meet your own needs it will end in disaster, pride, fear, and worry will destroy you, they will become the enemy against your love life.

A beautiful wedding and a license will not make a marriage, what makes the marriage is the union of two hearts that will weld husband and wife, A successful relationship requires falling in love many, many times, but only when it is with the same person! That's what I do fall in love with you on a daily basis.

See when you love someone, I mean really hard down love someone, you are willing to make your relationship work regardless of what your other half has done.

Love is the master key to the gate of happiness, a force capable of transforming an enemy into a friend, the only remedy for love is to love more, despite of who you have been with in the past, I still love you.

Most people pray to find the person they'll love, I pray to love the woman I marry forever.

Love has to be learned over and over again, there is no end when learning how to love.

When you begin to feel that another person's feelings are more important than your own you know you have truly fallen, I hope you like what has gotten into this man, let me tell you, I love you yesterday, today, and forever more.

Ain't No Love Like The Real One.
