Yes, prison in the US seems to be all about CYA. At least in my limited view. If a guy makes booze using apples and sells it to 10 other guys. They take away all apples from 1400 others as a punishment. You don't get it back either. Just punish the idiots making the hooch! It's no excuse and no one learns consequences! Taking away healthy food from the major majority of inmates who are doing the right things seems ass backwards.
