Chrissy Sissy,

Thank you for not only reading my blog but for also leaving two messages. Your words are kind and encouraging. I strive to create vivid pictures in peoples minds as they read about my life. I love knowing that my past and pain allows me to connect with strangers.

I wrote the fiction piece titled Bum Bob's Adventure because a co-worker asked me to keep Bum Bob going. Please let me know what you think.

God has blessed me time and time again. I've overdosed on herion twice and rested in the blackness that comes with almost dying, I have four healthy children, I have a chance of getting out of prison in three years, and I can express myself with words spoken and written, the list could go on but my point is I still don't put in the effort of having a relationship with God.

Thanks again ChrissySissy

Roland Stoeker.
