It hurts so bad that i Can't express these deep unheard feelings to you in person. Tide down by so many different obstacles that i feel there is no way around. But to get this off my chest i'll jump threw as many hoops as needed... See sometimes in life we loose out on many opportunities because we didn't express ourselves, or because we were afraid to take that leap of faith.

You know i've honestly never felt like this before for a (white Queen). My whole life i've been program to like black, and latina women, never thinking of anything else. (But race means nothing to me) because who you fall in love with has no color. You slowly worked your way into my heart, and i don't think you even knew what you were doing. It was your honesty, your open minded way of accepting knowledge, and your willingness to give me a chance to build up your broken foundation...

Your blue eyes and sexy smile just made me light up inside, it gave me a sense of comfort. We've had conversations where we've both open up about the past trash, and you always made me feel worthy.

Everything about you i like, and i see no flaws within you. I want you to understand i don't play games with anyone's emotions, or heart. Remember, i'm not in this for what i can gain, but for what i can bring into your heart.

We can't control who we fall for emotionally, we can only control what we do with those feelings. I believe the only way i can understand your beauty is for me to shift my arousal to the beauty that's lost to the eye within your heart.

I do respect, and cherish every thing you've told me about your past, and would never disrespect, or throw aside your loyalty, and history to please anyone. I hope after reading this you can share your input into my writing, and give me a sign i'm not alone...

Growth is life, and without it you'll continue to deteriorate inside.
