

Date: 11/28/2018 05:01 PM CST

Subject: Odd moments in prison

So, this morning I am getting ready for work and as I usually have done for over 6-years, it is in nearly dark conditions. I made a mental note that the toilet sounded like it was flushing slowly. I wondered if the line had frozen or backed up. On my way out the door 15 minutes later and still in the dark, I stepped into the cold morning air. Only realizing at that moment that my wool cap (Beannie cover, or watch cap to Navy folks) was not in it's normal place - tucked in my waist band. No big deal, I forgot it on my bunk. Nope... you guessed it. That's why the toilet was slow alright. Damn! My favorite watch cap!! Sucks being over 50 sometimes... Pass me my AARP card somebody!