

BTB #9
Reply: 62j9

WG

I guess you never received the 8" Fan, 3x shorts, and ginger snaps. Walkenhorst delivered to your facility on 20 of December????

EEE

Yes I did, thank you very much. The fan I had for the past decade was losing its power to circulate the fetid air inside my 6'x10' tomb, so I'm very happy its been replaced with a new one. And the shorts are 4x, and fit perfectly. At 6'4" 240 lbs, this soon to be 56yr old-man is grateful for these simple comforts I'd otherwise do without.

I didn't understand what the gingersnaps meant until I word cleared (w/c) the word GINGER in the dictionary - and then I knew! My mischievous-ness with provoking JT, would offer a nice Yuletide surprise. You see, JT and I have a certain threatening kinship tempering each others mettle by daring obnois. I call him Ginger sometimes, when I want to get under his ruddy skin - knowing that under his skinhead-ness, is red hair. I'd call him red-beard if he was bold enough to grow one, but I've seen the stubble - so instead, I call him Ginger. Therefore its easy to realize the impact of sharing a box of Ginger-snaps (LOL) after riling his ire and tempering his mettle, time after time, in 2018. It did break the ice between us - in the most medicinal way - and it even melted away the third party D&D motivators of his low-toned neighbor who loves to hate everybody. Sharing is Caring, here in hell. Thank you for helping me to re-mind them that we're all in this together.

Be blessed.