Yes, Jeri Ryan, "Seven" was always a total babe. I just recently introduced Candice to her, and now she understands why I call her "Ten" - because Seven has nothing on Ten. None of the Nine did! Ten was off their scale ... Lol.

Thank you for the comment, and for reading.

And ... Jaime did seem to accept your apology, thank you for that.

Still haven't gotten this "letter" you speak of...

I do look forward to it though.

I am impressed with how cordial you have become, and I've gained a lot of respect for you lately. Thank you for being so nice and respectful. I will NOT forget it. I will work on answering some of your questions -- not here, but maybe via mail or over the phone -- to give you some of the closure you still need. I am sorry, if that counts for anything. In my older age, and after all of the death and hell I have seen, a lot in me has changed. We just had another guy in here stabbed to death on Sunday ... it happens so much that a lot of prisoners are numb to it. They just step over the blood and go to their cell. I'm trying to keep my sanity, and my humanity, and talking with all of you helps. So please keep being nice.

Sorry to hear you work with "Nurse Ratchet", Lol.

We have a lot of those here in prison, in all forms of uniforms. Every time I hear one, I think of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, and realize I'm not just in a prison ... I'm in fucking nut house.
