

Well,

I am writing to say that I have been trying still to get this book published I just wanted to give an update on my status. It's been hard for me because I am looking for a place to live upon release but there are very few people who alot of times can look at the person and not their past or a number they are labeled by. I have I think written like 20-40 places in the last month with no responses. However, i know that something will happen. I am still waitning to see if I make parole as well I hope that I get to be God knows how much i need to be with my family. I know everything is in His capable hands and as down and depressed I get sometimes I know he brings me through all of it and and I will be okay. This is not hsi plans nor is it the extent of my life. Stay safe everyone and wish me luck.
