Greetings "J"

Thanks for the compliments you posted in regards to both my handwriting and poetry; each time I am complimented I am truly humbled, because I never seek praise for anything that I do in regards to my writing, art, or poetry.

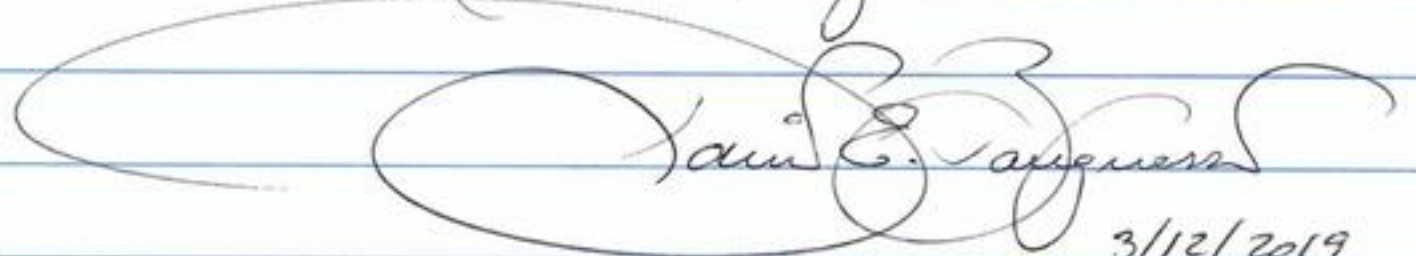

My only desire is to make others smile in some way, to hopefully exhibit the common bond that all of us do have.

Often my poetry is somewhat melancholy, a bit morbid, even dark; but there is always a sliver of hope and light buried within, as most of the poems that I write are actually fragments of my own life and personal experiences.

Thanks once again for your compliments, and for taking the time to read my work and to respond.

May all your days be blessed in every way and filled with endless smiles and laughter.

Kindest Regards

David E. Burgess
