ATTN: Editor-in-Chief;

My name is Antoine J. Murphy and in spite of my current location I'm an avid writer. Mainly I focus on poetry, but I also have written skits, stories, advertising slogans, and even quotes!

Coming across a Reader's Digest (circa March 2015) I noticed that the last page was "QUOTABLE QUOTES!" Seeing how I'm currently working on a book of quotes I thought I might submit a few for possible publication.

I ask for your patience with the process in which I submitted this document, as I don't have internet access.

My publication credits include: The Upper Room (circa March 2015) and a collection of poetry E-couragement from a Prisoners pen.

Original Quotes

"I don't believe in; hope for the best, but prepare for the worst. because you get that which you are prepared for... Prepare for the best."

"If you look up - you can't see down!"

"My journey isn't over, it's just been relocated."

"God believes in you."

"In the spirit of community remember: You were born for others."

"Thankfulness will get you through any situation or circumstance."

"To walk in my shoes, you must first take yours off."

Thanks for listening.

Thanks for considering my thoughts and ideas for possible publication. Provided you do publish one or more of the enclosed quotes please know that the check MUST be sent to Antoine J. Murphy P.O. BOX 1000 - Redgranite, WI 54970-1000

Respectfully;

Antoine J. Murphy
