my coffee always gets cold before I am able to tell how much I need her strength on wet winter nights when the darkness is clouding my mind feeling a loneliness deep inside my old body causing a pain in that part of the heart where I ~~hold~~ hold on to every memory we've ever shared like the taste of a condensed man's last meal where I still hold her heart against mine again the coffee is cold as I cannot find the words to tell her how many ways
I love her.

I do not have the silver spurs
anymore
I spent the dollar
and the dime
on more summer wine
I drink the wine and stare at the door waiting for your return

Not even 4 A.M. yet it seems like I've been up for hours listening to the radio, restless, mind racing, thinking about which way to go at the next crossroad or maybe just jump at the next exit - can anyone tell me where the hell am I?
