POST 4-11-19

There are moments in which everything combines to penetrate the interior of being with PAIN - IN these moments it is paramount that we grasp Mercy, that we remain human, The tears that fall are a cleansing - That is, if we remain human, we wipe them away & we carry on in our struggle to will the good for the sake of the good - we adapt to the pain - we learn from it - we do not however allow it to rob us of our being - we keep hope - we continue to love - we reject hatred, we shun depression - we 'will the good' - we are 'human being' -

May the reality of our collective purpose find us each, individually - MAY we grasp mercy - MAY we acknowledge one another sincerely - This life is fleeting, that which is truly important is beyond the phenomenon we covet understand -

Love sincerely & exist as conscious mind -

- I REMAIN HUMAN -
