

What are the odds?? That some one would take a chance on me?
I wonder this almost daily when it comes to my success. I know from inside these walls not alot can be done to enable me to access these resources but man, I still think about finding a job and looking for a place and just meeting people who won't be the same vultures I have known for 12 years. i know in life I probably don't deserve knowing anyone who would have my best interest at heart but I would like to believe that everone can still be good and be good people despite their past, even someone like me., I was young, I was stupid and didn't understand even who i was. I guess a child hoo full of trama makes you a product of of a fuxxed up creature, if you will. But that is not the person I want to be labeled as. i want to simply be real, be better....