"America's Death chambers"

By Ronald W. Clark Jr.

Here we are killing another man under the false concept of justice. I understand your need and blood thirst for vengeance. Its human nature! At least the evil side of our human nature. An evil side that most civilized countries have put away in their evolving standards of human decency. This is America not some third world country. But some how some way we are behind the reset of civilized nations in this world when it comes to murdering our own citizens under the mantel of justice. Kill the killer to prove killing isn't right! Some how that makes sense to our leaders and some of our citizens. Violence breeds violence! We see it in this country with all the mass shootings. We are a violent nation that is becoming more and more violent. Our death penalty does not work! All it shows, is that we are a sick and twisted nation that can't look past our ignorance and blood thirst for vengeance and lean towards common sense civility. Cause with each and every murder we commit, all we are doing is showing that we are no better than the actual murder that we so adamantly claim that we're better than. When in all actuality our actions show that we're not. In fact our actions of premeditation "supersedes" those of the worst serial killers. For we have this murder planned out to the exact day hour and minute for which we, as the world's greatest Nation will snuff out one of our citizen's lives. And for what? To prove a point that we ourselves are no better than the individual that we claim to detest. No our point is futile, for it only makes sense to the irrational twisted mind of the sick vengeful side of human nature. When will we as a the leading Nation of the civilized world, stop acting like a third world barbaric tyrant country and murdering our citizens in America's death chambers? Unfortunately this is just another black eye in the history of America.
