UNSPOKEN TRUTH REVEAL

How do i express how i feel to a woman that i don't know if she would feel the same?

(Often this question affects our life yet fear control what we do)

-SO THE TRUTH-

Since i was 18 i've been confine to the system being striped of any chances to connect with my equal, and then you came into my life innocent yet your blue eyes displayed pain, and sorrow which made my heart stop at the fact that someone as beautiful as you could've endured such pain so young, and then i notice you use jokes, and laughter to conceal you pain, and suffering so that you won't have to relive it daily which you do anyways because it apart of you, and doesn't make it who you are. However its what i saw in you that made me want to understand your struggle, and your story that made you who you are. It was your willingness to strive for self worth, and the strength you have that allow you to free yourself from the hold he had over you. I could tell you weren't a push over yet you still long for a mans touch, strength, and unspoken JEWELS to forfill what was taken, and lost. Nevertheless your ambition to fight for a better you made me want to be better for you so that i could earn the chance to get to understand you, and hopefully get the chance to be apart of your inner beauty.

For me your outter beauty gave me the opportunity to cherish what stood in front of me while i earn the right to get too understand your inner beauty for your inner beauty holds so much pure wisdom, strength, knowledge, and worth that any man lucky enough to be let inside would cherish that moment for life. I understand i'm at a disadvantage because of my current situation yet i'm at a advantage because i have the tools to listen, and produce the JEWELS to strengthen your self worth, and in return have an equal who cherishes my worth as much as i do hers.

Final Statement: Never assume that these words are to game you or some how get you to do things for me, and never assume that you don't have the right to ask questions because you do, and is the only way you'll get to know if what i'm saying is pure, and genuine. Being hurt myself in life has gave me the chance to strengthen my own worth, and over come my own fears of rejection so do understand that i don't write these words to you lightly, and hope that you see that i'm being honest in my quest to get too know you.

CONCLUSION: Please don't see this as more then what it truly is because there will never be true love without true friendship, and a friend is all i want to be at the moment because i'd rather have you as my friend then to not have you in my life at all. Nevertheless, being honest is something i have to be because lies only undo the bond we already have.

Remember the only way to truly love another is to fully love your entire self which means the good, and the bad that comes along with being you.

Your reading this which means your already have some form of feelings or connection to me so take your time to understand what i'm trying to say, and hopefully at the end of this we still can move forward.
