Subject: Iran is pissed? Who cares!!

Don't act surprised America. I am amazed that we have delayed what is now happening for as long as we have. Since 9/11 in fact. I will say this. Our screw up with Syria ensured these events unfolded. Once Russia stepped into Syria, that sealed the certainty that things in the middle east would begin to unravel for the US. Hundreds of thousands of really good people died to take back their own country from a tyrant regime. That is now over. Syria and Russia (with Irans blessing and backing of course) have slaughtered 2-generations of freedom loving Syrians. It ensured Americas loss. All of our blood and effort...

When did Iraqi's ever demonstrate in the streets when our Soldiers gave their lives to defend some little village from being decimated by daesh? Fuck em all !!!

Russia is terrified of us. They got their asses handed to them in Afghanistan. Entire Companies overrun and wiped out. Every attempt to over run a US post, even when it was 40 Soldiers fighting 500 assault troops - we always prevailed. Half of em Iraqis who we were training and supposed to be helping regain their own country, their own freedoms. But, because we fight for each other and for freedoms ideal, we prevail time and again.

Iran? Fuck em!!! This fight was a long time coming. I am just sad that another generation of Americans must suffer because politicians failed again. This fight was a long time coming America. Don't be mad, just get ready. Don't ever forget how many Iranians were flying the planes on 9/11. Iran and Russia have been fighting WWIII with the US since 1984. This is simply the next phase. Sadly, we should never have allowed them to consolidate for so long. Politicians showing fear. Now, it may very well be a bloody fight to correct.

Americans believe in "right" and "justice" and our "Constitution". As a military vet with over 2-years in combat zones, and now experiencing the horrible injustice and corruption of our own prison system...I am sad.
