

reply ID: fif4

My thanks for your reply to my blog. I am a very simple man these days, spiritual & reflect alot upon my past. We all should learn from our mistakes. Try to better ourselves.

my advice to your question; to seek a protective order, move, get counseling for the emotional trama endured to help the victim of abuse recover & heal.

The man in question needs profesional help for his adictions, some anger management counseling. to learn what he has done is wrong!

sadly as with most situations in our society - it is the kids who suffer the most. its the wrong example to set for a parent to act in any negative way towards the spouce w/child in house.

I will pray for them all.

In Christ, Chuck