

being disabled in prison is like being disabled & homeless, there's no place for you, it's a death sentence, & in being disabled in prison & finding in any way where one can fit in, it's a miracle, being disabled in prison is a death sentence, & it is a slow, painful, humiliating death, in a system that specializes in the slow, painful, humiliating death, which is a character of white supremacy, capitalism & imperialism, especially concerning nonwhites, & all of this shapes my view, in my view i see the coronavirus as a sign of the death of white supremacy, capitalism & imperialism. what politics is this? the politics of the poor, the homeless, the incarcerated, & the planet. opposition to this is systemic & entrenched, i am willing to do what i can to advance the anti white supremacy, capitalism, & imperialism front, where i am at there is no holistic organization, or any organization besides the state, in solidarity in the struggle
