I have a Cellie that I believe has a demon possessed spirit or he's seriously mental ill. He demonstrates weird behavior such as pulling stitches out of my clothes and delutes food products on my shelf with chemicals. I have excused his weird behavior for months - figuring he'd put a stop to his evil deeds. But he didn't stop at least not totally - finally I had enough of it and confronted him with threatening language. I think that he got the message as my stuff seems to be unscared. He had no reason to do it as I have not done anything to prompt a reaction like that. He is poor and I've been feeding him and giving him hygiene I don't know why people do evil things.
