

Howdy Ms. Jenny halterman,

april 7th 2020

my thanks for your kind letter -posted w/my blog reply. Espically for your hard work transcribing my blog post and the replies! I value all ya'll at BTW and the hard work you put in for free! Its a real good thing what your doing in the efforts to bring awareness change- one voice one act can make a diferance. Right now (as ya can read in my reply) its bad here, we have seen the cleaning of areas surface w/bleach daily. but they slack off on weekends! our showers are used by 7 men each day or more. they went uncleaned for 5½ days. only today when i voiced my disgust did they bleach scrub the showers. I had already cleaned in twice in 5 days myself! Rsiking geting corona - having no gloves or chemicals to clean it. I use shampoo and state ajax biby powder. I'm in good health so far :OP its a shame things have to go so far- even puting us all at risk! I was very touched by your act of writing me. thats a first jenny! in all the years i've been on BTB only ben - who initially signed me up wrote from the old uni that used to host it. I'm interested in corresponding w/you if ya wish to. i'd like to work with you regarding bringing awareness to politicians & activist. I'd like to participate if you wish to work w/me.

I understand your busy and have a ⁱⁿ schedule, classes etc. a life to I'm sure. I invite you into my world jenny. join my friends supporters on facebook.com/friends of charles victor thompson/ the current post your transcribing on BTB Rebekah is posting to my fb pg and about to start her own blog on isolation/solitary. we invite you to join us in solidarity for change awareness....

A recent podcast came out about rebekah and my friendship. its rated in the top 10 by the guardian news paper in UK.

I welcome you to view the various actions things we are doing, put in your input, advice, ideas :0) I hope to hear from you. Wishing you a blessed Easter, w/eyes set on a virus free World in the months ahead.

In solidarity,
Chuck Thompson #999306

Enclosed Blog post, Rebekah is about to start a blog on.