

A FINAL DRAFT FOR THIS IS PRISON?

As a writer, it's hard to let go of a project. My book is finalized, with copies off to the editor, and now I've created a preliminary cover design. It's time to let the project go, or I will be tempted to keep adding to it. This collection contains works from as far back as 2007! Some previously published works, with lots of new stuff as recent as last month.

The design is from a doodle I did several years ago in homage to Kurt Vonnegut. I always liked how most of his books shared a common design with his trademark V, and not much else, just what was needed.

I need to complete some of my other projects, and put this one behind me. Although, it will always be a part of who I am.

