x3ab

Love Note

5/1/20 My Dearest Love:

My world turns at the very thought of you; my skin begins to tingle; my hair stands up on end; my heart begins to race toward the memories of our yesterdays, hidden somewhere deep inside my mind in a spot somewhere between love and the devine where I lose the ability to breathe without your embrace; a place where I will always feel the softness of your lips on mine; a place where the sounds of the music playing in the background are the love songs you and I listened to together in another time; songs that remind us of when we were just young lovers — moving along the highways and backroads of forever in an old chevy pickup. Remember the night of Christmas eve in 1963 parked in the alley way behind Backstar's Tavern holding on to one another watching the party going on around us. I love you.

I'll Love You Always
Forever + Ever
Your Steve