

"Single Service", ("Jan"?)

I really appreciate what you said, here. Yes, it's hard to think about my Mom around her death date each year, but I also know this isn't unique to me. Everyone suffers loss, right? I hate to seem whiny or obsessed, yet to say nothing seems so much worse. Every week it seems I realize something that I wish I could share with my parents, some new insight that makes me say - "Oh my god, I GET it! Thanks Mom, thanks Dad... now I see what you were doing, and what you did." I just wish those insights had come a few years sooner.

Much love back to you for your kindness. People like you remind me... it's not all bad. There are decent ppl in the world. Thank you.

--Dymitr