

Love Note

My Dearest Love:

11/14/2020

You are all I think of, the only true person in my world. Sometimes when I'm alone sitting in the cell in the middle of the day and the rest of the world has gone quiet except for the music of our love that is still hidden in our hearts I can hear your voice singing ever so softly to Carol it has become late summer 1963. You just turned 21. You are so beautiful and so happy filled with the love of youth our youth. I look out the window I just opened and the warm air flows in with the sounds of the streets: people talking up and down the sounds of cars passing by on 21st street, we're in an old apartment on the corner of N street and 21st. I look toward you and you have turned into the great grandmother you are today dancing around the room singing along to the music of our heartbeat you look my way and smile and I become weak in the knees. I know what love is, I have sense I was 16. I take you into my arms and sing along with you to the greatest love songs ever written and our laughter fills the room. [♥]

I'll Always Love You
Forever & Ever
Your Steve
