

It's 2021, what does the new you look like?

I have been doing vocational college for years. January 28, 2020 I just graduated from Introduction to Hospitality. As of February 04, 2021 I am officially Ashland University Student now at the age of 46 years old. I am majoring in Business Communication. Right now I am working on my ~~BA~~ Associate Degree under second chance Pell recipient. I am going to work my way up to a Bachelors of Arts in Communication. This Spring semester, my subjects are:

~~The~~ Entrepreneurship

American History through civil war

Introduction to Management

Exploring Christian Ethics

I came into the prison system broken, lost and felt worthless. Because I had been ostracized from society, for my crime. I was the black sheep of the family I would be nothing. Came in with no education. Now I will be leaving my Ged, Computer technology and customer service, Residential and Commercial Plumbing, Introduction to Hospitality and now Business Communication degree. In I've ~~Learn~~ Learn when we end up on the wrong path. We don't have to stay or even listen to the negative people that want us to stay down. There is light at the end of each tunnel no matter how dark it is. There is hope and a purpose for your storm. Who can you help? What can you do better? Where do you need to be?

This is the new look I have for 2021
