

SEASONS TRAVELING CAGES
BY
LUIS D. PEREZ

Children without parents coming to America.
Culture of multiple nations mother nature shares her heart with this message to impact.

Seasons traveling cages
seeking justice in other countries and whispering into their soul, they can't see the
seasons change
of life and hope.

Poor countries suffering the pain of not seeing the future make them
walk for thousands of miles.

The plants around them are complaining of being in a different soil strugglin to survive
if the children want to stay alive.

The pandemic strike,
drinking the wrong
water and liver
disease is flying
on the winds.

Crossing the border
is like the brisk
feeling of Autumn
winds, even the trees bring winter's
new dreams.

Rivers and veins
are moving human souls into the American ground.

Traveling cage
seeking for justice
like the crispness
of Autumn's last
spree, bring slumber
for those who seek the American Dream.

Luis D. Perez
4/8/21