

Nate's News 16 June 2021

Been a while since I submitted something written in my hand...

Been busy. Most of my early writings were written while I was in solitary confinement, where I had plenty of time to think deep, carefully & share those thoughts with an ink pen insert.

Since I've been here at CCI I've largely been occupied litigating my lawsuits regarding abuses that occurred in other WI prisons' Seg/Solitary/BH units, six cases in total. This has sapped my ability to also create... profound... or material for BTB. But, as I've made clear in earlier posts, I've given up trying to titillate desperate housewives or captivate any fickle people... my straits are too dire, life's too short, this prison shit imagined by powerful hypocrites & idiots is too serious.

It's been luckless, my search for an attorney to represent me for the trial I have scheduled for this November for my suit about staff in the WI Secure Program Facility setting me up to get stabbed in my head 3 times (more elsewhere) with a foot-long piece of sharpened steel. Trying to get justice for that case alone, in America — "The Human-Rights Beacon of the Word" (?!) — has been a struggle. One attorney just told me that I wasn't injured severely enough, needed to lose a limb or something, for her firm to take my case. (The groove carved into the bone of skull isn't "severe"?!)

The world + its people have disappointed me... except for Dr. Zigmond + Camille, who've had my back through these last four years.

There is some good news. This fall I begin classes for the Milwaukee Area Technical College (MATC), aimed at an Associate's Degree in science. Yay!

I'm gonna wrap this up.

Oh, check out @PromWrites + f PrometheusWrites, where Camille has or soon will post a podcast containing guards' body-cam footage, showing that they moved me into a shit-smeared cell at Green Bay Corr. Inst. (Go Packers...?) then denied me cleaning supplies for several months, because I helped others sue. I wonder why so few care about that? Now you know why I've lost my ebullience.

I scavenged letters, phrases from the U.U.'s World and The Progressive to go with these two pic's from The Progressive.

The first thing I thought of when I saw Trump's photo was "stupid," & clearly Sen. Ron Johnson's with him. What's sad is that science has not advanced enough, yet, for these two comedians to have a baby together, something to remind us to be grateful we're not "them," like a hairless cat...oo
