Zanafi , sat there looking at the razor.

the cell was dark , the pod was noisy as it normally is . He could not get up or move. he felt frozen . his mind stuck, " my life , is over . they will never let me out again. what a fuckin' birthday present. at 51 today , he could not do another bid. he was on parole for life. he was no prison rat or institutionalized , he hated prison and the idiots that now populated them. it was not an issue if he could survive. he could , he ran every prison he was housed in. and he had not been gone that long to where he would have been forgotten. His rep. would last long after he leave this earth. He was not George Jackson , but he was revered all the same as a warrior and revolutionary of his time and place. he had 26 state of Wisconsin supreme court rulings in his favor. won two class action suits for the whole state prison system, and successfully had three U.S. supreme court rulings over turning criminal convictions of pro bona cases he single handed. He stop counting the cases he worked on behind the Scenes that had mass impact. he had over 79 Wisconsin court of appeals remands in criminal law and about 500 in civil law.

he was tired and just did not want to deal with it any more. that life , the one he lift back in prison , in the state of Wisconsin , was suppose to be over.

he was out , in napperville IL. and was working for youth recovery counsellor, as cps. bank account was full from the law work he did after getting out, and was not in need for any thing Materialistically.
