

A poison Blossom

I am a firm believer where you planted at. You should blossom for the reason you want to help your community no matter the race. But apparently there was a poison blossom in Brookside, Alabama where residents says - police cashing in on predatory tactic racial profiling, fake charges. I was stunned to know that this place has no traffic lights, one store, military tanks, policing for profit. This situation is ridiculous. Why is it nobody building this community up for the better? Mayor, City Councilmen where is the money going in this community? Secondly what in the same Hill you need military tanks for? why such large police force in a small area? Basically what is it seems like this police chief Mike Jones built him a army to terrorize the African American in that community. Is Mike Jones resigning is enough? People like this thinks they are slick. They hurry up resign to keep from getting terminated. Because if they resign. They can take this poison somewhere else in another community. I feel the rule needs to be change because resignation does not stop the poison but open up a new opportunity for the ~~poison~~ poison to blossom somewhere else. This door needs to be closed completely.

Written by

Jennifer Johnson