

To: Mc 84
Boston, MA
ID: 9240
MARCUS Cooke

*Please Post as Written*
Complet THANKS

04-08-22

Dear Son Marcus,

I am in receipt of your very thoughtful words, they were very up-lifting at a low point in my life

I'm so sorry you finding it so hard to bring yourself to write. But in one sense I really do understand why. Please allow yourself to believe that.

It was thoughtful of you to even allow yourself to think about me getting out and when. You once told me that you were the one that was most like me, and those kind of heart-felt thoughts prove it. I'm so glad to hear from you.

As for the rest of your brothers and sisters, as I believe I'd mentioned the only one I've actually spoken to over the last 5+ yrs is your sister Sarah, A.K.A. "The Baby Maker", hell she already beat your mom and I and I don't think she's done yet. We had been talking on the phone and she'd sent me some pictures of her kids and one of us all 6 of us taken at a Sears store years ago.

(2)

To: MARCUS COOKE
Reply ID 92x0

She'd also send one of you guys gathered at the bottom of the stairs on Crystal Ave around Christmas. I was so grateful for them after so many yrs.

But Sarah had promised time and again to send me more but she never wrote back. This was after Christmas 2021.

She did send me one of my own personal pictures of me and my shit bag father in the Public Gardens in Boston in about 1960!

The Cider Chest that had all my childhood pictures had thousands of pics. She sends "One".

Ya I know son, "Who's fooling Who with her words about me getting with God. After ever conversation my last words was "ALWAYS", "I Love You", she never once answered back.

But swore she'd found it in her heart to forgive me because that was what her mother thought would be best and the Godly thing to do. I have no clue what she or any of you had told her about me where I am and all I've done to try to reestablish some kind of a relationship between us. ????

To: ID 9240
Marcus Cooke

Saturday
Night

(3)

04-09-22
Hi Dad, needed to take a break to let all you'd said settle in. I never really thought anything could bring me back from the dark place I've been for the last 6 mos. or so. Thank You!

Son, by now you must have my address here in Bridgewater. It would be so much easier for "US" to not only communicate but try to start rebuilding / starting a father-son relationship if you wrote me directly. And if you felt comfortable enough send me your address?? I promise to only write when you are ready and I to never lie always sharing the truth with you.

I hope you get this and give it some thought. Its up to you.....

I was heart broken when I got the news of your mother being sick in the hospital and then her going home to be with so many of her family. I have no idea what messages your sister has shared with you boy but I've sent plenty. No more important than when your mother passed. I try to talk to her about all of you as brothers and sisters and get an idea what all of you think of me?? PLEASE Write Be Well, Be Good, Be the Man I knew you'd always be.

Love To All. Dad x0