

Hello Neurke,

I apologize for not writing. My semester in the University is about to wrap up until later part of May. I will start back. This week I have one more essay to write, final exam and one test. I am going to write a lot of hot button topic articles. I hope all is well with everyone out there. I realize we have a inflation etc. I am going to meet you in the middle of the situation that plague everyone right now. Until then keep your head up.

Love ya
Jenn
