RE: THE ELECTION & JUSTICE FOR ALL

Dt: October 22, 2022

To Whom it may concern: ; GREETINGS!!

Massachusetts, and what happens in our Commonwealth can affect the nation as a whole since the infamous "Willie Horton" affairs. When the Media, Politicians and the Department of Correction frightened the State populace to the extent that most of them believed that prisoners were coming out over the walls with fangs and horns.

Next month we have a mid-term election, and I am hoping that we have new elected candidates who can pay more attention to the Criminal Justice System and to the apprehension and prosecution of the so called white collar criminals. Reluctance to do so involves the very infrastructure of our country.

For decades, law enforcement and media have given much attention to "street" crimes, and rightly so, but white collar crime has a much more devastating effect on our society in general. Street crime is very isolated in overall impact. White collar criminals cause a ripple effect that can topple businesses, companies and the entire banking structure in this entire country.

Hundreds and thousands of people can be victims of a single white collar criminal, thereby far outweighing the impact of the community than a single street criminal. I certainly do not want to minimize the impact of street level crime, considerable harm has been done in that area by criminal acts such as I have done in my youngers year back in 1971.

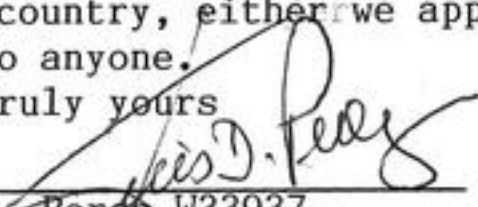

Sometimes I think that I have to die in prison and that my 51 years on incarceration does not count for anything. But on the other hand, reflecting on the political correctness that has to be re-evaluated, the entire criminal justice system have to change for the good of the people who perceive crime in terms of the following theory of being politically correct.

POLITICAL CORRECTNESS

- *When the poor steal from the rich, it is called "crime"
- *When the middle class steal from the upper class, it is called "mismanagement"
- *When the upper class steal from the middle class, it is called "inproprieties"
- *When the middle class steal from the poor, it is called "noble obligation"
- *When there is corruption among the politicians and rich people, white collar crime takes place, and that is called "kickbacks, fraud or money laundering"
- *When the politicians of both branches of American society steal, it is called "fiscal Responsibility"
- *And when the poor steal from another poor, it is called "tough luck"

Enough is enough, people have to be real, people can't tell the citizens that you can rob America while wearing a three piece suit, if we are to have laws in this country, either we apply them equally, or we don't apply them at all to anyone.

Very truly yours
