To Brandilark,

Hi! I can't tell you how much I appreciate your transcription and the kind words of your comment. Not everyone who visits this blog is so nice, and whether they're nice or not, it seems like people haven't been transcribing posts lately, at least not mine. So - thanks so much!

I'm curious, what endeavors are you speaking about when you write "You've given me much to ponder in my own endeavors." Are you involved in the criminal system, an abolitionist, a student? No need to answer, of course, and I know you probably won't even see this (my printout says you posted your comment to me about 4 weeks ago, and it was postmarked Nov. 12th when I received it on Nov. 30th, so it looks like you wrote it around Oct. 24th [my birthday!], and this won't go online until around Dec. 10th or 15th, so what are the odds you'll be checking in almost 2 months later?). You just piqued my ~~curiosity~~<sup>interest</sup>, that's all.

Glad I wrote something you found some value in! Take care.

* You can write me directly!
