Open Letter to Readers and Commenters
On Between the Bars

I've been told I had a handful more comments posted here than the two I recently replied to. Sometimes it takes months before I see the things you folks write to me — not the fault of Between the Bars, but of the mailroom at this prison, which often holds my mail for 50 or 60 days, even longer sometimes. I'm really sorry to anyone who takes the time to comment me when I don't reply in a reasonable time. Whoever sent the most recent ones, I hope you see this and know that at least I did hear you sent something, and as soon as I see it for myself (and get the Reply Code), I'll get back to you more correctly!

Take care everyone. All my best for 2023, and thanks SO MUCH for your involvement with Between the Bars! All of us prison bloggers love and appreciate you very much, your comments and transcriptions, and just your care enough to pop in and see what we have to say. You give us hope and meaning.

Sincerely,
Dimitri

PS - Remember, if you want, you can write me directly!
