

Does anyone else get the feeling there are only two likely possibilities for the near future? Because, to me, it sure feels like we're headed toward either:

A) Nuclear War, or

B) Civil War. (mainly a U.S. concern, but not exclusively)

As far as I can tell, it's just a matter of which may come first.

So... pick your poison, then?

Both have their pros & cons for sure, but I think I have a preference.

How about you?