

Reply ID: 66 ch

Sorry to take so long to respond!
I've had some actual Innocence accounts to organize and mail out in steady seek of Exonerated and this must stand paramount til I am free from false/wrongful conviction-or-dead.

I've had this blog page up since like 2009 I think - I probably have enough poems on it for a couple of books. But, I have like 33 books of my poetry (yet published) for if I get exonerated-or-go to my daughters-or-nieces. But, I am certain no artist whether illustrator; painter; song writer; author ; or poet wants to keep posting and nobody rarely ever (maybe once or twice a year) responds to the posts, and or merely respond in short: "my favorite, keep writing."

This what should be understood in my behalf: "People should consider I'm gonna keep writing until I decide to stop, even if I decide to not post poetry due to no responses-or-few responses, does not mean I've stopped writing." It's just that they have nothing - or - little to say to me so why should I keep pouring my heart and soul upon the pages of it to or for them.

I have been writing poetry since about 1999, around 24 or 25 years. I won my first Famous Poet of the Year award and got published in 2001 then got published and awarded there three other times; 2 Editor's Choice awards at another Poetry Society; published at Poetryfest and offered applications to be members at the Academy of American Poets (in New York, NY) and International Black Writers' Conference as an indigent prisoner who's conspired against by evil prison officials. "If you only knew what goes on in here, and to what magnitude!" They censored one of my posts. Why do you think I keep calling for advocacy to help get transferred from this prison. Where there's smoke, there's fire!!!...
THERE IS NO WAY I'M EVER STAYING AT THIS CAMP (PERIOD).

Ain't no need for people to read our stuff - it's like, they want to know us
- but, don't want us to know them. So it does seem fair. Well, I wanted to respond - but, I did not want this to seem self-centered. You can feel free to respond any time you want. I don't really write that much here because I dislike it here. I will post what I decide to post (never all my poems or my best) because I get to keep some for me — and only when I feel like posting the same as the way they choose when they want to respond.

Thank you greatly!, for taking the time to respond and appreciate my poetry.

Wm O. R. J.