

Reply ID: qimg

<http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/339/>

Yes Father John I remember you. You sent me all those internet downloads: All the lyrics to, "Jack Tarr - Sailor" and rare images of wooden ships, which inspired many colored pencil, oil crayon, regular crayon paintings. This colored pencil painting is mostly imagination. The lighthouse was from a saltwater fishing newsletter, but it was boring as just a little known automated lighthouse on a sandbar covered with beach roses, (Elizabeth Islands, Buzzards Bay, Massachusetts). So I made it more interesting as a false daguerotype with a tethered observation balloon, (which I simply guessed at how it would appear), on a cliff.

The one on the blogs space is not for sale because I always gift BTB with artwork I post - they're a non profit staffed with volunteers. However, like most of my successful motifs I did several versions. I have one version almost identical that is for sale to you for short $. Write me at: James Riva W38533-0000 - One Administration Rd. - Bridgewater, MA 02324.

So my parole got shot down in 2020. I go in a couple months for review again, ~~in~~ Insha'Allah.

Tell me; did they clearly print about 9 pgs from my McLean Hospital Report alongside "False Daguerotype"? I need to know.

