

I go court for an alleged resentencing. My lawyer did not sound too upbeat in me getting released. But what can a person like me expect. Society will forgive a murdering prick but they will never forgive one that committed a sex offense. I am tired of defending what I did and I am tired of all those opinions on what and how long I should be punished. I know Punishment was due. I have been locked up for 35 years. California released literally hundreds of inmates that were serving life sentences. There was given compassion there that our officials gave to so many. But my crime of rape has not been forgiven. Will there ever be a time when I can show our citizens that I can be trusted around women. I do not even masturbate any more. I know why I raped my victim. I know all of my triggers and how I was groomed since I was a youth to become a pervert. I do not think of women as sex objects as I did decades ago. I can be what is respectable to all the people that make up our community. I now serve a higher power. I believe in Jesus Christ. Through him I can do all things. Well I hope that I am given a new chance on life. I go to court on the 30th of this month. I will be going to court at 8:30 in the morning. Any one that would like to call the judge in Sacramento and let him know that everyone deserves a second chance. I will be going to court I think in room 35?
