

Spouting Off

The World knows not the Spirit of God the Father in Heaven and it is only through the Wisdom of His Grace the present day world exist ... I do not have all the answers, but I know through faith, that, I am not of this world of which I been blessed to sojourn - which is the very same world that crucified my Brother Jesus Christ and denies any guilt in doing so ! My reality is that I fall under the same condemnation of the world that tortured and nailed Jesus to the cross - a world that indoctrinates its children into believing there was/is no guilt in the taking of Jesus' life upon the cross ! Making me a Disciple who lives through the Spirit and not the flesh - as the Disciples before me learned and came to accept in faith - to the world I am just spouting off - in an attempt to seek to justify myself of its condemnation of me - only the world cannot keep me from singing praise in not being part of it - just as it could not stop the testimony of my fellow Disciples that sojourned this world before me and of the example they set for us, who follow - their message is the same message given me, in Jesus Christ and Him crucified ... A message I will never grow tired of Spouting Off !!!