Hey Wiazardmouse,

First, I would just like to thank you for giving my spirits a much needed boost in the area of my writing. You have no idea how it feels to be putting my stuff out there, and yet for months never receive any form of feed back. I often wonder if ANYBODY is even out there. Some time back, I had even quit for awhile, because I just assumed that blogging was something of the past. What, with the way communication has become so quickly convenient, I just assumed nobody even visited this sight. Back in 2018 and 19, I had a nurse-friend from Canada who couldn't stand waiting so long in between our messages, so she simply became a contact on my tablet.

Good news, if you were serious about liking my reading, I still have about 70 weeks worth of stuff to include. Basically, what I'm doing is each weekend I type one page of a book that I wrote into my tablet, and then send it on Monday for my readers to enjoy. So, I just looked in my folder and discovered I still have about 70 pages left. Hopefully you won't lose interest, because in a few chapters I'll be getting into what's going on AROUND me more than what's going on WITH me. It will be kinda like looking into the not-so familiar definition of the word "Memoir."

Okay, before letting you go, I just have to ask what your nickname/screen name symbolizes? I mean, am I now communicating with a dwarf who likes to practice witchcraft? Before getting mad at what I just said, think of the wild gibberish you've been reading on here, and admitted to liking it.

I was given the nickname "MAZE" when I first came into the county jail. It stemmed from the type of art work I do where I design mazes, but I would really like to hear by what means your name originated.

Hope to hear back from you soon,

Eric

P.S.

Sorry if this message was a bit late. From what I can figure out you left your comments on June 30th. However, I didn't actually receive it until just last night August 6th. Thanks again.
