

INTROSPECTIONS OBJECTIONS

Imagine the weight and sheer severity of news that your life is set to end in mere months. Would you believe your voice still matters?

Moreover if a life is taken prematurely do any of our online venues we slave to Honor it in any productive meaningful respectful way ? Can we own time?

Fill it with some type of legacy we leaves behind marked in history. To stand in the face of insurmountable adversity and maintain ones dignity,worth or our very humanity. Sometimes its the hardest thing to just carry on with seemingly normalicy, put on a smile and greet the world. Even in the darkest hours of societies worst moments, some light shines, even a spark exist.

But when our worst side Rears its ugly head, why are the mob mentality followers so quick to judge, to condemn. Its what we fear that drives us to blanket hate and judgement without any reason or understanding.

As a voice, a presences in the universe, every being matters, each has its role. To devalue a life, or tear down a persons beliefs, views, destroy the foundation of any system they hold dear, is to attack with prejudice, demonsrates bias and ultimety shows your own ignorance fueled by hate.

To seek to understand, to reconsile or resolve is the right step to seek out the knowledge of motive, passions that drive folks, reasoning, is a pro active use of logic.

It is easy to destroy, but can each of us create ? Do something to better humanity? Do something to better humanity as opposed to seeking to dismantle it.

What has transpired in our advancement of society with technology is people have taken on a voyours lynch mob instant judgement mentality. Allowing common sence to fly out the window, Voyeuristic rules of the internet, social media, tv, politics, news media and mob rule maintains a judemental stranglehold over the human race. Knowledge is power, shouldnt we all seek to utilise it instead of abuse it.

Ignorance isn't bliss, it is by definition: The lack of knowledge or Education. Be fully informed, seek out the truth, don't follow the crowd. We should all blaze our own trail. Keep true to thy self, as one voice one act can and does matter.
