

A WOMAN'S SCORN

It's something we hear about in EVERYTHING throughout history: the danger of having a woman scorned. And it's portrayed like being another "it is what it is" situation to be accepted as a norm. But, truth is: it's a fault in character, and a pretty pathetic one at that.

What is a woman's scorn? Spiteful revenge.

It's when she didn't get her way, or feels wronged in some way. With her response being to do whatever for revenge. And in the revenge getting process for her, it's anything goes. She will fuck her husband's brother, dad, friends, coworker, whoever she knows that might cause a strike of pain or anger; or, like in the cases of a lot of my exes, she will snitch to cops or whoever. It won't matter about her own illegal acts or drug use, as long as she inflicts harm to get her spiteful two-year-old-toddler-like-mentality revenge, in a stomp her feet kinda way last laugh.

I am in prison, and yesterday I had a visit from a female contraband prison guard. My cell was tossed, but mostly I noticed that my dirty boxers were in a different place. Also my cellie had a coffee mug she took, and I sincerely hope the guard doesn't use the nice stainless coffee mug with the Umbrella Corporation logo, because my cellie used it as a piss jug. He cleaned it after, but still, hope they don't drink from it. The funny thing is that in ALL situations, of when someone snitched -- the staff tells us who snitched. ALWAYS! Whether it be from inside (or outside) the prison, or whoever. Doesn't matter. When they come to search, they cannot seem to NOT tell us who sent them and why.

Luckily I do not keep contraband. No need for a weapon because I am more than capable of defending myself; and, the whole cell phone thing that's over with -- especially now. All I do is this, write. I study quantum mechanics and write. As for the "individual" who sent the guard, they -- their family and entire bloodline -- are now wiped permanently from my memory. It was strike three for them and now they are banned and all the bad things in their life ... that's called Karma.

I look forward -- past is the past.

My biggest confusion is why do people protect pedophiles?

Right now, in South Carolina, pedos are treated like they should be protected, understood, and forgiven. While I grew up with the distinct Unquestionable feeling that a shallow grave was too good for them. It's a leftist ideological disease that pedos were people too, and if the leftist thinks someone is hurting, extorting, or abusing a pedo -- they snitch and run to their aid. Which makes me wonder about THEM!

But, again, in a woman's scorn situation -- they are blind with spite and revenge -- to get that last little foot stomp.
