Check out the story on S., Vedam - released from prison in Pennsylvania, after 43 years due to the discovery of withheld evidence ! My whole case involves withheld evidence (never disclosed) which Florida's legal system has oppressed and suppressed throughout the appellate process, denying me mandatory relief of my conviction being overturned - like Vedams was overturned ...

1) The initial police officer on the scene of the murder - who took eyewitnesses statements - was never questioned nor was his police report disclosed to the defence - the statements he received from the eyewitnesses where exculpatory to show Mark Poole fit the description of the person the eyewitnesses seen commit the murder - one hundred and eighty degrees opposite of my appearance - yet three of the four eyewitnesses testified at trial - they were positive, I was the person they seen commit the murder

2) All four eyewitnesses gave type recorded statements describing the person they seen commit the murder - their statements were never turned over on demand for discovery - again their description fit Mark Poole and not me - yet at trial three of the four eyewitnesses testified they were positive it was me they seen commit the murder - again leaving me no way to dispute what they testified to - due to the withheld evidence and the detective that took their statements testified at trial that he didn't record them ...

3) Both roommates to the victim, initially denied any knowledge of the murder and later changed their statements and testified at the farce and mockery of my trial - that I confessed to them - I had no way to dispute what they said because the fact that the victims roommate Mark Poole fit the eyewitnesses initial descriptions was never turned over on demand for discovery - nor was I able show motive (reason) for Poole committing the murder - all I could do was stand midway through the trial and shout to the judge and jury -that I was being railroaded

4) There is a host of other things I was unable to discredit due to the fact of exculpatory evidence not being disclosed on demand for discovery !

The fact that I haven't had my conviction overturned in over 43 years due to undisclosed exculpatory evidence in my case - brings out evidence of the criminal act of racketeering by the faction of Florida's legal representatives - which I hope to use artificial intelligence and this case (Vedam) to finally bring to light the atrocity of justice, I suffer ...
