I can't class! Man, I know nearly nothing about you (I think you're not American, and male, but that's about it and I could be wrong on both, as I was partly wrong about Tenzin a couple years ago), but I sure do love hearing from you! Thanks so much for being a part of this.

The news you shared here was almost overwhelming. I'm mentioned in a blog rating website? That is SO cool!! 😊 For anyone who didn't see your comment, here's that URL you gave me:

Bloggers.feedspot.com/prison_blogs

I sure wish I could see that for myself!

Another commenter here told me privately that the site appears to have no info on how its "Top 30" lists are compiled, and maybe it doesn't really mean all that much, but it still feels pretty wonderful to me. I'll just keep believing there's some significance to it, at least until I'm shown otherwise

* (Hey, if anyone else reading this knows anything about this Feedspot.com site and its rankings, please do tell me! I'm dying to know.)

It's sad to hear about the "flood of negativity" you encountered by googling my name. I can't say that doesn't sting a bit. I hate that people see so much cop-generated trash connected to my name now. But at least there are some good things as well. Maybe comments like yours on here will help create even more. Thanks for caring. And thanks for the kudos on my posts. I do put some effort into these, you know. That's why it can get pretty disheartening when people don't see them, or say anything about them. People like you make it all worthwhile, though. 😊

* I will try to "keep it up". Hey BTB readers... please leave a comment or two. Not just for me but other bloggers too. It really makes our day! And it probably helps BTB also... IDK how they get funding, but engagement surely can't hurt, right? 😊

All my best,
Dymitri
