

Bye and Best Wishes

Rosie if you have resentment and hate in your heart it didn't come from me ! You're not a child and need to begin appreciating the time we been blessed with as adults - I don't know how many times I must apologize for not bringing the father you deserved me to be !? I worked hard at trying to correct my flaws - read and even took two years of mental health - went through drug treatment - went to AA - the only thing I couldn't do, was comprehend the constant discrimination I had to contend with due to the color of my skin ... I had a white mentality, but a brown body - you and Mike can blame me for not being the father you deserved, but not being able to accept me for the man I am today - is totally wrong and immature of you - because like it or not I am your biological father that planted seeds of love in your young formative minds ... I don't need to make excuses for my failures - I have accepted them and forgiven myself as I attempt to move forward productively - I am sorry I have intruded and imposed myself upon you - take care - and happy early birthday - your Father - xo